New for moms: a wedding band collection in mind
Austin's Blondie's is now starting to sell rings that might appeal to some same-sex couples. Though they are not designed specifi- cally for women and men, the collection features unusual metal combinations like white gold and rose gold, and a few bands have single diamond center stones that could be worn as a male wedding band. Blondie's has sold between 10 and 20 of the rings ranging in price from about $1,200 to $3,000, Botello's, 2905 W. Anderson. Bendl's.

Add sparkle to hair with Charms
Getting ready for a special occasion? Now you can add sequins, hearts, diamonds and more to your hair using Formula 1 Hair. The product comes in 13 colors, including baby blue, baby pink, baby orange, baby purple, as well as silver, gold, pearl, and black. You can use a flat iron or curling iron to put the charms on your hair. They will remain in place for about six to eight hours and cost $10 a package. They can be purchased at Babies "R" Us in Austin or online at babybunnies.com for $9.99.

For more information on the band collection, please visit the Blondie's website at theblondies.com. For more information on the Formula 1 Hair product, please visit the babybunnies.com website.
